Report description:

Following significant double-digit declines in 2020 across most alcoholic drinks categories, the South African industry witnessed a notable upturn in 2021, whereby total volumes returned to just below pre-pandemic levels, while total value sales fully recovered. Such a strong performance was based on several factors. First, alcohol bans which occurred in 2021 were far less severe in terms of duration and frequency compared to 2020, or only limited the sale of alcohol on certain days. More import...
