Report description:

The COVID-19 pandemic continued to have a decisive effect on smokers' consumption habits in 2021. Smokers were more price-conscious as their disposable incomes remained below pre-crisis levels. Meanwhile, external borders were yet to reopen, despite the gradual relaxing of social distancing measures. Consumers who used to purchase cigarettes from duty free channels were instead forced to rely on relatively expensive domestic retail channels. In this scenario, local consumers searched for alterna...
