Report description:

The category continues to recover in 2022 in line with all mandatory COVID-19 measures being lifted in February of this year. Gum has historically been a product with high on-the-go and low at-home consumption, thus significantly reducing its consumption occasions during the last two years. Although the hybrid working format is still in place in some sectors, people are more regularly commuting to the office and students are returning to schools and universities. This is creating more consumptio...
