Report description:

Digital cameras had already been in rapid decline for a decade when the COVID-19 pandemic struck. It hit the declining category hard, resulting in the halving of volumes just in two years from 2019. As the opportunities to go outside to enjoy holidays and travel declined, the opportunity to take pictures on a digital camera also shrank. School events and life events such as sports days and marriages, which were cancelled, postponed, or operated minimally and with great care to infection control,...
