a presence here due to the region's enormous client potential. Due to these reasons, businesses would profit from adopting remote workplace services as they would be able to provide better customer service, unite their workforce, increase operational efficiency, improve automation, and save operational expenses.

As per component, services to grow at the highest CAGR during the forecast period

As per component, services is estimated to hold the highest Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 25.1% in the remote workplace services market. Remote workplace services are further categorized into professional services and managed services. To ensure visibility and security across all business functions, professional services assist enterprises from many industries with consultation, integration, and support in dealing with threats efficiently. Managed services can help businesses with remote work support in the following four ways: cloud support & services, collaboration solutions, redundant IT support, and security. Professional services can create plans for sustaining remote worker engagement, define procedures that enable technology-based learning and remote employee self-service, and establish policies for remote work that include explicit timing and designated demographics.
