Report description:

Pre-COVID-19, health-orientated trends were already strong in Poland, with consumers were checking the labels to identify the nutritional values of products. This behaviour will only strengthen in 2022, as health consciousness lingers in the aftermath of the pandemic. This rise in health-consciousness has naturally hampered the sales performance of sugar confectionery, as few items in this category offer beneficial nutrients. As such, retail volume growth will decelerate in 2022.
