Report description:

Overall, dermatologicals was negatively impacted by the pandemic in 2020, though some products such as topical germicidals/antiseptics did register positive value growth as people washed hands frequently in order to curb spread of COVID-19. In 2021, the product area returned to positive value growth, with antiparasitics/lice (head and body) treatments registering the highest current value growth. With schools and child care facilities closed for much of 2020, there was less lice infestations. In...
