Report description:

Saudi Arabia's weather conditions including dust storms, sandstorms, heat waves, dryness, humidity, and air pollution creates the ideal environment for dermatology diseases to develop and thrive. As such, there is consistent need for skin-condition remedies, leading to value growth in the overall category. This is true even with the Saudi Food and Drug Authority (SFDA) continuing to regulate dermatological drugs and adjust their prices. Affected categories in 2022 include topical antifungals, va...
