Report description:

Antacids and digestive enzymes are among the most common digestive remedies used in Bolivia accounting for a significant share of value sales in 2022, partly related to eating habits. During the pandemic, consumers ate more meals at home, decreasing their need for these remedies somewhat. In general, eating at home tends to be healthier than eating out, where there is no control over some triggers of gastric discomfort such as higher levels of condiments or fatty compounds. In 2022, Bolivians te...
