Report description:

As pandemic-related restrictions in Chile started to ease in 2021, consumers began to spend time outside of the home, including participating in outdoor activities. This led to a rise in incidents requiring wound care, boosting retail volume sales of the category for the first time in several years. Nevertheless, demand for wound care in 2020 only dipped marginally, as greater time spent at home led to higher incidents of accidents such as scolds and cuts through regular cooking and baking as he...
