Report description:

All wound care categories are expected to recover to exceed pre-Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic levels of retail current value sales by the end of the review period. However, this is informed by high inflation, energy and production costs and supply issues. Retail volume sales are projected to continue their recovery from the pandemic-induced slump, as consumers, children and adults were less active and less at risk of injury. Nonetheless, while consumers are resuming work, school and social and...
