Report description:

Most vitamins have continued to benefit from the impact of COVID-19 on consumer demand in both value and volume terms, thanks to the trend towards prevention and boosting the functioning of the immune system. However, value growth has also been partially driven by high energy prices and the rising cost of raw materials, while volume growth has slowed down compared to the previous year. Consumers have stopped stockpiling vitamins C and D and multivitamins. While consumption has started to stabili...
