Report description:

With COVID-19 still affecting society in 2022, albeit to a much lower degree, consumers are continuing to place a strong focus on preventative health measures, including the intake of dietary supplements. Consumers see these products as a good way to boost their immune system to prevent cold and flu, for example. As such, the immune system is a key positioning found among many dietary supplements, with ingredients like black elderberry extract and echinacea being a key feature.
