Report description:

Value sales of digestive remedies increased in early 2022 as local consumers wanted to ensure that they had adequate stock of various types of medicine, including digestive remedies, for the self-treatment of the Omicron variant of COVID-19 which emerged in South Korea in late 2021, in addition to concerns over supply shortages commonly used by local households. In addition to fever, headache, and sore throat, gastrointestinal disorders such as vomiting and nausea were also reported as symptoms...
