Report description:

Restrictions on the use of gyms and fitness centres negatively impacted demand for sports nutrition during 2020 and 2021, while fewer people are also participating in outdoor exercise and team sports due to social distancing measures. As fears around COVID-19 soften and government eases its restrictions people are beginning to resume their normal activities and are spending more time exercising and taking part in outdoor activities like jogging, hiking and cycling, as well as returning to gyms a...
