Report description:

Sports nutrition saw a modest decline in 2020, affected by the COVID-19 pandemic. However, a surge in growth was seen in 2021, and this is expected to continue in 2022, bolstered by increasing gym attendance, as well as new and innovative brand launches catering to a variety of interests and needs (plant-based, organic, different flavours, etc.). Both sports protein and non-protein products are set to post double-digit growth for the second year in a row, with non-protein products seeing the hig...
