Report description:

After having posted declines throughout the review period, wound care is poised to record modest growth in total volume sales in 2022. The recovery is partly explained by the ending of pandemic-related restrictions, in that the potential for cuts, bruises and other minor injuries has increased as more Kazakhstanis have started to resume their usual routines and spend greater amounts of time outside the home. The fact that specific concerns surrounding COVID-19 have recently encouraged many peopl...
