Report description:

Topical antifungal creams continue to lead the category in 2022 as Costa Rica's humid climate makes these products a more essential product in most homes. Common treatments include athlete's foot and nail fungus among others which are common ailments when the feet get warm. In 2022, topical antifungals was the fastest growing category in dermatologicals as consumers returned to physical activity and the incidence of fungal problems increased. Consumers typically have low brand loyalty when purch...
