Market Overview

The China & India dehydrated garlic market has been growing over the last few years and is projected to reach USD 183.55 million by 2028 at a CAGR of 3.81% from 2021 to 2028. The significant reasons for the growth of the China & India dehydrated garlic market are increasing applications in the food processing industry and rapid growth of the foodservice industry. Moreover, consumer inclination toward organic products and the growing popularity of Ayurveda are expected to be prime opportunities for market players. However, difficulties in cultivation are expected to hamper the growth of the China & India dehydrated garlic market in the years to come.

Garlic is a nutritional herbaceous plant consumed for its medicinal as well as culinary benefits. Other than fresh garlic, dehydrated garlic products are also used in several industries such as food processing, food service, pharmaceutical, and cosmetics.

Dehydrated garlic is available in various forms such as powdered, granulated, minced, chopped, and flakes. Among these, the powdered form is the most popular choice among application industries. Dehydrated garlic powder is the dry powder that is obtained from garlic bulbs. Dehydrated garlic powder is characterized by a pungent and pleasant flavor primarily due to the presence of the compound allicin. Garlic powder is widely used in bakery products such as bread, bread rolls, pizza, and other savory items as it enhances flavor.

Increasing applications in the food processing industry rapid growth of the foodservice industry are supporting the growth of the China & India dehydrated garlic market. Moreover, consumer inclination towards organic products and the growing popularity of Ayurveda are the factors creating an opportunistic market for the players to grow and expand. However, difficulties related to cultivation is expected to hinder the market growth.
