Report description:

With the ageing population, local consumers' interest in health is shifting to longevity and anti-ageing. Therefore, new products and technology have emerged to support this growing trend, and NMN (nicotinamide mononucleotide) has been rising in popularity in Hong Kong since 2021. Its effects of cellular rejuvenation, antioxidation, and repair of damaged cells have been studied and reported widely. It is said to help combat the signs of ageing, return youthfulness, and promote longevity. Therefo...
