Report description:

As the United Arab Emirates reopened at full capacity, including sporting events at public and school levels, the trend for maintaining a stable supply of bandages or first aid kits should the need arise for wound care gained momentum in 2022. Although many accidents occur in the home, the fact that gyms remained closed and that children were unable to play outside for a significant period during the pandemic suppressed demand for sticking plasters/adhesive bandages. Thus, both retail volume and...
