Report description:

Processed fruit and vegetables will see a retail volume decline in 2022 due to the resumption of cross-border trade. The slight increase in retail value sales is primarily driven by inflation. Overall, increases in the cost of raw materials, shipping costs, labour wages and energy have led to substantial price increases in all staple foods categories in 2022, including processed fruit and vegetables. Processed fruit and vegetables, as a product area, benefits from a transition to plant-based die...
