Report description:

The COVID-19 pandemic, which suppressed consumer spending across the board, had a strongly negative impact on debit cards in 2020 and 2021 with notable declines registered in transaction value and overall reduction in the number of cards in circulation. The first half of 2021 saw the second and third waves of the COVID-19 pandemic sweep through Thailand, leading to strongly reduced commercial activity in key sectors of the Thai economy. This piled the pressure on household incomes and forced con...
