Report description:

Sales of air conditioners are set to post an increase in 2022 driven by the launch of the government subsidy for the replacement of air conditioners in June 2022. The subsidy covers between 35% and 50% of the appliance's value and is available to all households, although lower income households and households with more than two children (as well as other categories that fit certain social criteria such as a member of a household with a disability) are prioritised. Consumers can apply online or d...
