Report description:

Consumer health awareness has accelerated in the wake of the pandemic and this has encouraged more consumers to switch from carbonates to purified and mineral water. Although this trend was mostly observed in young adults aged 18 to 30 years, who are most concerned about having a healthy diet. By contrast, flavoured bottled water is losing popularity with retail volume sales declining in 2022. Surveys indicate that consumers consider flavoured bottled water to be just a different type of carbona...
