Report description:

When the COVID-19 pandemic hit Japan in 2020, this drove a significant increase in the bulk-buying of processed fruit and vegetables, as consumers stockpiled these products due to fears of supply-chain disruption. Due to their long shelf life and ease of storage, demand for most types of shelf stable fruit and vegetables recorded strong growth. Prior to the pandemic, shelf stable fruit and vegetables had been steadily losing ground to frozen processed fruit and vegetables. While metal food cans...
