Report description:

COVID-19 drove a surge in retail volume sales of processed meat and seafood in Hong Kong during 2020. Fearing supply chain disruption during the early stages of the pandemic, many consumers rushed to stock up on products with a long shelf life, with frozen and shelf stable meat among the main beneficiaries of this. For much of the review period, retail volume sales of processed meat had been in decline due to increasing concerns about the healthiness of these products. As a result of this growth...
