Report description:

COVID-19 drove a significant increase in demand for ready meals packaging in 2020, with further strong growth seen in 2021. Spending more time at home than usual led to a spike in the retail volume sales of ready meals owing to the ease and convenience that they offer. Bored young consumers regarded such ready meals as frozen pizza as a cheap and safe alternative to eating out. Some consumers also stocked up on these products during the early stages of the pandemic due to a fear of supply-chain...
