Report description:

Hosiery was hit hard by the onset of the global pandemic and measures imposed to limit the spread of COVID-19. Consumers had to stay at home and had few opportunities to socialise. While there is a growing number of women in paid employment in the country, sheer hosiery suffered from the closure of workplaces. Non-sheer hosiery was also affected by the closure of non-essential stores, while declining disposable incomes forced consumers to make do with the products they already had at home. This...
