Report description:

Demand for products in processed meat and seafood saw a major growth spike in 2020, with double-digit unit volume percentage increases for some categories, including both frozen processed meat and frozen processed seafood. This was due to the closure of consumer foodservice outlets and the national lockdown restrictions placed on consumers, seeing them cooking at home a lot more than usual when the pandemic hit the country. Although lockdown restrictions were lifted in April 2021, some consumers...
