Report description:

Having plunged by more than a quarter during 2020 due to COVID-19 restrictions and the economic shock that they engendered, airline passenger traffic (million passenger-kilometres) recovered only partially during 2021 and 2022, with the pace of recovery actually slowing during the latter year. The number of people who travelled by air plunged by more than four-fifths during 2020 and 2021 but saw a substantial recovery during 2022. Nonetheless, it stood at no more than a little over half of its 2...
