Report description:

In 2021, wound care rebounded from the drop in demand in 2020 due to the restrictions on movement during the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic. As consumers returned to the workplace and schools and resumed outdoor activities, retail volume sales increased. However, the demand for wound care stabilised and retail volume sales declined again in 2022, while retail current value sales stagnated. Many consumers restocked their wound care supplies in 2021, without using them all, which inhibited new pu...
