Report description:

Meals and soups achieves modest volume growth in 2022 coupled with a strong retail value growth due to rising prices amidst the growing inflation in the country. Ready meals outperforms soup which continues to struggle and stagnate in 2022 in volume terms but manages to achieve solid retail value growth also as a result of the growing unit prices. Dry soup remains the dominant format and the market witnesses no change in product and brand offering across the other soup ranges.
