Report description:

Retail demand for sauces, dips and condiments notably declined in 2021, in line with the resumption of activity outside of the home as restrictions eased, including the return to foodservice (which in contrast recorded double-digit volume growth). Furthermore, given the long shelf life of some products such as cooking ingredients, some consumers were still using accumulated stock from the previous year when panic buying ensued following the initial emergence of the pandemic.

Euromonitor International's Sauces, Dips and Condiments in Hong Kong, China report offers in-depth knowledge of the market at a national level, providing local insight and understanding unavailable elsewhere. In addition to the latest retail sales data 2017-2021, it identifies the leading companies, brands and retail outlets, and assesses the key trends and demographic shifts behind consumer demand and sales growth. How key trends such as health and wellness, sustainability and recovery from the pandemic are shaping the market in <|Year|> directly informs our forecasts to 2026, clearly indicating how the market is expected to change.
