Report description:

Home care sales in 2022 witnessed a recovery in current value terms, but retail volumes continued to decline. The removal of all pandemic restrictions in retail stores and the absence of home quarantines enabled families to resume out of home activities, which has negatively impacted demand for home care products to an extent. Higher production and logistical costs have led to price increases from domestic and imported brands as players sought to protect profit margins. On the demand side, consu...
