Report description:

Home insecticides achieved stable value growth over the review period in Bulgaria, including in 2022. There is a lasting trend towards urban consumers moving to rural areas, renovating old family houses or buying a new property. There are higher insect populations in rural areas. In addition, the COVID-19 pandemic has accelerated the relocation trend. According to property experts, the property market was booming, with more and more Bulgarians looking for houses near the big cities. This trend i...
