Report description:

Bleach is not a popular home care product in Bosnia and Herzegovina, as there is a myriad of other products available that are just as effective but not as toxic. There is also constant innovation in other home care products, whereas there is also very little added-value in bleach. In 2022, bleach registered further volume decline and while bleach registered a boost during the height of the pandemic, now that concerns about COVID-19 have abated, the decline in volume sales continued.
