Report description:

The Vietnamese government continues its efforts to prevent the spread of malaria, which threatens the health of people throughout the country due to the prevalence of mosquitoes, that carry and spread the virus. However, another mosquito-borne disease is also now also having to be taken more seriously in the country. According to the Ministry of Health, the number of dengue cases skyrocketed in 2022 compared with previous years. In Hanoi, over 1,000 new cases were recorded every week over 7-20 O...
