factor for the rise of demand of Refrigerators. The emerging middle class and purchasing power are expected to lead the growth in both basic and premium category refrigerators. The most preferred style of refrigerator includes French door styled refrigerators. LG Electronics (LG) has unveiled the latest lineup of Linear Top-Freezer refrigerators in the market. Along with Refrigerators, Cookers and Ovens have also occupied significant market share. The Revenue generated is also increasing at a constant rate over the last few years.

Rise of Online sales of Major Home Appliances in Mexico

Although the rate of internet penetration in Mexico is relatively low compared to other countries in North America and South America, the proportion of online sales of Major Home Appliances has been increasing by a steady rate in the recent years. Also the usage of internet has risen compared to that of the previous years. There are also less number of e-commerce platforms operating in the Mexican region. So, there is a huge potential for e-commerce platforms to capitalize this opportunity as the usage of internet in the region in the coming years is even expected to grow by a higher proportion. This is due to the fact that the labor-intensive jobs are decreasing compared to that of the blue collar jobs. All these factors are expected to further substantiate the overall Major Home Appliances Market in Mexico.
