Report description:

Substantial levels of growth in 2022 are the result of COVID-19 restrictions being fully lifted in the country. COVID-19 led to built-up demand, with consumers who considered themselves to have 'missed out', visiting full-service restaurants once again. In addition, the return of inbound tourism and the possibility of arranging business meetings and conferences has further boosted sales. As a result, the category was one of the best performers in 2022, with the popularity of eat-in rising.

Euromonitor International's Full-Service Restaurants in Denmark report offers a comprehensive guide to the size and shape of the market at a national level.
