Report description:

The development of the retail tissue category was affected by inflationary pressure in 2022. Following the global imposition of lockdowns during the COVID-19 crisis, the category faced the inflated costs of raw materials, supply issues and the weakness of the Malaysian ringgit, leading to prices rising by more than 10% during the year. With increases to the cost of raw materials and logistics, as well as the increase in the minimum wage, which provided an additional burden to producers, many bra...
