Report description:

The increase in energy and material costs caused rising inflation in 2022, leading to retail price hikes across all areas of tissue and hygiene in Denmark. Subsequently, the landscape has recorded strong current retail value growth, while retail volume remained relatively stable and robust in areas such as retail adult incontinence and retail tissue. However, nappies/diapers/pants and sanitary protection took a decline in retail volume growth, impacted by alternative products and rising price po...
