Report description:

Sales at grocery retailers were back in decline in Asia Pacific in 2022, with the impact of spiking case numbers in China, as it continued to pursue its zero-COVID policy, dragging down the overall regional performance. This followed a strong recovery in 2021, after the falling sales seen in 2020, when the pandemic first hit the region. Grocery retailers are currently expected to see positive growth throughout the forecast period, driven by both small local grocers and modern retailers.

Euromonitor International's Grocery Retailers in Asia Pacific global briefing offers an insight into the size and shape of the retailing industry, highlights emerging trends, their effects on retailing in markets around the world, on the development of channels and consumers' shopping patterns. It identifies the leading companies and brands, offers strategic analysis of key factors influencing the market - be they the developments of new store types, the importance of non-store retailing, economic/lifestyle influences, private label or pricing issues. Forecasts illustrate how the market is set to change and criteria for success.
