Report description:

In 2022, depilatories witnessed a steeper decline in volume sales compared to 2021 as retail prices escalated. The sharp rise in inflation seen in Kazakhstan mirrored trends seen around the world as the war in Ukraine took hold and fuel prices surged. Consumer uptake of hair removal in beauty salons has also been rising, which has caused a shift away from depilatories for home use. This trend is likely to have a longer-lasting effect on retail volume sales of depilatories in the coming years.
