Report description:

Although wallpaper continued to record positive growth in 2022, growth at constant 2022 prices slowed compared to a year earlier and sales were still below pre-pandemic levels, given the size of the decline seen in 2020. The inflation rates in the country were making consumers cautious in their spending in 2022, particularly on non-essential items like wallpaper, which is mainly used for indoor decoration and has no impact on the structural integrity or function of walls.
