Report description:

During 2022, the prices for cigarettes rose multiple times throughout the year, across all brands, with prices recording a growth between EGP4 and EGP6 during the year. The continuous rising costs associated with production, logistics, and transportation, along with the unstable conditions for imports, were causing disturbances to the supply chain, forcing manufacturers to increase prices to keep up with the cost pressure. In addition, the currency devaluation and the hardness in acquiring US do...
