Report description:

Wearables are expected to be the standout performer in 2023, registering double-digit volume growth and that is despite continuing high inflation and also significant currency devaluation, which is making imported products even more expensive. However, this growth is from a small base. These products are mainly purchased by affluent consumers, particularly those with a strong interest in sporting activities, although the availability of more affordable brands is supporting growth in volume terms.

Euromonitor International's Wearable Electronics in Nigeria report offers a comprehensive guide to the size and shape of the in-home, portable and in-car consumer electronics products markets at a national level.
