Report description:

Consumer foodservice in Latin America has been on a clear recovery path since 2021, after the major losses COVID-19 inflicted on it in 2020. However, high inflation is negatively impacting consumers' purchasing power and therefore also the pace of the recovery. Chained players performed better at the height of the pandemic, thanks to their financial backing and an ability to swiftly adapt to changing conditions. However, independent establishments continue to dominate the industry in the region.

Euromonitor International's Consumer Foodservice in Latin America global briefing offers an insight into to the size and shape of the Consumer Foodservice market, highlights buzz topics, emerging geographies, categories and trends as well as pressing industry issues and white spaces. It identifies the leading operators and brands, offers strategic analysis of key factors influencing the operating environment - be they economic/lifestyle influences, new foodservice concepts, outlet locations, menu innovation or format development. The entire industry is considered, including both chained and independent operators. Forecasts illustrate how the market is set to change and what is the criteria for success.

Product coverage: Consumer Foodservice by Location, Consumer Foodservice by Type.

Data coverage: market sizes (historic and forecasts), company shares, brand shares and distribution data.
