Report description:

KEY FINDINGS

The Asia-Pacific beard grooming products market is anticipated to register a CAGR of 7.77% between the projection period, 2023 to 2032. Some of the top factors facilitating the market growth of the region include the surging trend of male grooming products in developing nations as well as the rise in the number of unisex and male-specific grooming salons in urban cities.

MARKET INSIGHTS

The Asia-Pacific beard grooming products market growth analysis includes the assessment of China, Japan, India, South Korea, Indonesia, Thailand, Australia & New Zealand, and Rest of Asia-Pacific. In South Korea, brands such as Rockwell, Bull Dog, and Every Man Jack offer a range of beard care products, including beard oils, conditioners, and shampoos, available through popular e-commerce platforms like Biovea, a trusted source for beard care in the nation. Other brands like Simply Great and Bossman provide their offerings through ubuy.com, often accompanied by timely promotions and discounts. Furthermore, global players like Viking Revolution and Prophet and Tools also cater to niche demands within the country.

However, it is essential to note that the culture of beard grooming in South Korea is less prevalent, primarily influenced by social and professional norms. In several Korean workplaces, sporting a beard is perceived as 'unhygienic' and 'untidy.' As a result, the demand for beard care products in South Korea remains niche when compared to the broader male grooming and cosmetics industry. The majority of men in the country maintain a clean-shaven look and do not typically opt for growing a beard. Hence, the aforementioned factors are set to influence the overall growth of the beard grooming products market in the Asia-Pacific during the forecast period.
