Report description:

Per capita consumption of analgesics continued to increase in Norway during 2023 after 2022 saw significant increases in consumption of these products. While there was some stockpiling of analgesics seen in Norway during the early stages of the COVID-19 pandemic, sales growth actually slowed down over the course of 2020, followed by stronger growth in 2021. Growth accelerated further over the course of 2022 and into 2023 as a return to pre-pandemic consumer habits and behaviours was seen. There...
